Kick of Meeting

MicroVET partners met online at the kick-off meeting! During the meeting, the project's goals, the activities to be carried out during the implementation period, and other project management tasks were discussed. Additionally, each partner introduced their organization and their role in the project. The date for the 2nd TPM was decided, and the partners will meet in Palermo, hosted by CESIE, in July 2022.

Latest updates

This report on the current status on micro-credentials of partner countries, was prepared in order to have a proper understanding on the current situation about this topic especially for VET institutions and VET trainers and to outline the situation at European and national level, focusing on the progress towards familiarisation with and up-taking of the micro-credential approach, emerging needs of training organisations, learners, and the business sector, as well as recommendations on the establishment of synergies and the organisation of common initiatives to better adjust to future requirements.

Training Activity in Utrecht

Micro-credential ambassadors training within the scope of MicroVET took place in Utrecht on 22-25 November 2022, hosted by the European School Heads Association (ESHA).

The micro-credential ambassadors training is considered an integral part of the Project's implementation, since it contributes in the targeted review of the Project's first phase results that will be the basis for the development of the microVET courses and the microVET Repository.

The microVET partnership's training providers, including IEK AKMI Escola Profissional Espinho, CESIE, Know and Can, and European School Heads Association, deepened their understanding of the micro-credential approach, talked about the development of microVET courses and the educational systems in all of the partner countries, and emphasized the role of micro-credential ambassadors in spreading the micro-credentials among VET provider.
